U.S. TROOPS EXPECTED TO ARRIVE SOON

FRENCH ARMY CAMPS ARE BEING PUT IN READINESS FOR GENERAL PERSHING'S ARMY.

NAVY COLIER IN PORT

Transport Jupiter Laden With 10,500 Tons of Wheat and Supplies Docks Safely, Secretary Daniels Announces.

BULLETIN.—The ministry of marines announced tonight that American warships have anchored off the French coast.

The French navy greets with joy on their arrival, these new brothers in arms, who under the flag of the great American republic have come to participate in the final victory in the struggle against the common enemy.

Paris, June 7.—Preparations are being made for the reception of American troops. The newspaper says further, a number of bases similar to those of the British army have been organized.

A large American transport containing wheat for American troops which are to come later, has crossed the Atlantic under protection of an American warship. The Matin announces. The transport is now being unloaded at a French port, the newspaper says.

Camps have been laid out for infantry and artillery and aviation parks have been established for American aviators. No American officer is bringing his family. The Matin says the arrival of the transport means provisioning of the army is well under way. The arrival of the troops, and accordingly the American forces will make no call on the French stock of food.

Washington, June 7.—The naval collier Jupiter has arrived in France, Secretary Daniels announced today. Laden with 10,500 tons of wheat and other supplies. The ship sailed from an American port without any intimation of her voyage having been given out in advance and is now at anchor in a French port.

Propelled by Electricity.

She was the first electrically propelled steamer ever built and her performance was so good that it led to the adoption of the electric drive for all new battleships and battle cruisers. The American navy is being reorganized to adopt this type of propulsion. The Jupiter has a high speed for an auxiliary naval vessel, which would enable her to escape submarine attack under any but unusual circumstances.

Secretary Daniels did not specify what supplies besides wheat the ship carried.

RUMANIA IS READY TO RESUME FIGHT

Paris, June 7.—Rumania has reorganized her army and is ready to resume the fight, according to a statement made by Premier Bratianu in an interview with the Petrograd correspondent of the Parisian.

"The Russian democracy," said the Rumanian premier, "has launched a new peace formula, neither an armistice nor an indemnity. Rumania finds this formula acceptable. She did not enter the war to make conquests. Her single object was and is, the liberation of her country from the yoke of Hungary, which never had the right to dispose of themselves.

"My country is keeping its promise under the most difficult circumstances. It has been invaded by an enemy superior in number; it has lost its capital and more than half of its territory; it has suffered famine and disease, but it has never given up the struggle."

BRAZIL ORGANIZES COAST ARTILLERY

Rio de Janeiro, June 7.—The government has issued a decree for formation of the first section of the coast artillery. The decree also calls for the opening of a credit of $700,000,000 to be expended on armament and war materials.

TARDIEU FACES GIGANTIC TASK

Andre Tardieu, head of the permanent French mission in the United States, is a keen business man. He will decide what supplies shall go to France and with the representatives of the allies arrange the difficult problem of the shipping. It is very technical work for which he is said to be exceedingly well equipped.

STILL LACK CLEWS IN KIDNAPING CASE

Springfield, Mo., June 7.—After cross examination that lasted all night and well into today, the police announced that they had been unable to shake to any considerable extent, the stories of the seven persons held in the investigation of alleged abduction plots growing out of the disappearance last week of Lloyd Keet, fourteen months' old son of J. Holland Keet, wealthy banker. Officials indicated a belief that none of the seven had been connected with the Keet incident, although it previously had been announced several suspects had confessed to having dissembled abduction of C. A. Clement, a jeweler, a child and a St. Louis mansion maker, the latter plot having been broached by German interests.

The search for the Keet baby was at a standstill today. Members of the family kept an all night vigil at the home hoping for some unexplained reason that developments before daylight might reveal the hiding place of the child. The police today said they were searching for three men in connection with the alleged plots. One was said to be from Chicago while the two others were understood to be from here.

One arrest was made last night, that of a chauffeur who told of having driving the alleged plotters from place to place and a statement was taken from Mrs. Elizabeth Osborne, mother of Mrs. Taylor B. Adams, who with her husband and two sons, is being held. Mrs. Osborne, it is declared, confirmed the confession of an alleged German plot that Claude J. Pierson, one of the suspects, had been according to statements in her daughter's home January 3, but that was denied by Mrs. Adams, the husband, was said to have confessed to have confessed fully to the Clement abduction plan and to have involved others in it.

NATIONAL SOCIALISTS FIGHT AMONG SELVES

San Bernardino, Calif., June 7.—California socialists will withdraw from the national party unless the anti-drift resolution adopted at the socialist convention April 7 is repudiated, according to a statement made today by N. A. Richardson, member of the state executive committee of the socialist party in California, who was the socialist candidate for governor in 1914. Richardson said he had sent notice to that effect to the national secretary of the party.

Chicago, June 7.—Joseph Gerner, secretary of the national socialist party, said today that N. A. Richardson does not represent the official California branch of the party. "I have received no such threat as yet from Mr. Richardson," said Mr. Gerner. He was asked if the party contemplated a repudiation. "Not that I know of," he replied. "We are voting on it by mail and the vote will not be complete until the end of the month."

OSHKOSH IS HOST TO TRAVELING MEN

Oshkosh, June 7.—Nineteen hundred and nineteen annual convention of the Wisconsin Grand Council of United Commercial Travelers opened here today for a three days session, with about 550 members in attendance. Tomorrow will be the big day on account of the parade at 4:00 p. m. of all of the state councils. Grand Councilor Brandeborg of Oshkosh presided today. Today's social features, including auto rides and a parade, will be held at Monument Square. Tomorrow there will be a boat ride, a reception for visiting ladies, a parade of about 2,000 visitors, and a grand ball. Saturday's events include business sessions and auto rides into the country and the annual meeting of the Ragman. Bagdad, auxiliary of the W. C. T. U.

U.S. PATROL SAVES BOATS UNDER FIRE

DESTROYERS OFF IRISH COAST DRIVE OF U-BOAT SHELLING SURVIVORS OF TORPEDOED SHIPS.

OIL SHIP SANK DIVER

American Steamer Silvershell Sank German Submarine in Mediterranean, Says Announcement from Paris.

An Atlantic Port, June 7.—An American patrol boat on the coast of Ireland recently came upon a German submarine shelling life boats of a ship, it had sunk, according to survivors of the submarine vessel. The ship was today aboard an American destroyer. The submarine disappeared before the destroyer could get a shot at her, and the American war vessel then rescued twenty survivors of the two ships that had been sent down without sight of each other, taking them to a British port. The two ships were the Russian bark Lynton and the Norwegian bark Madura, and the Norwegian bark Madura from Mobile for British ports.

The Lynton was sent down first with no loss of life. Immediately after the Madura was sunk. Survivors of the Lynton arriving here said the submarine shelled the life boats of the Madura, killing two persons and wounding seven until the American destroyer came up. Then the German submarine submerged.

Oil Ship Sank U-Boat.

Paris, June 7.—The American steamer Silvershell has had a battle with a submarine in the Mediterranean. After an exchange of sixty shots the submarine disappeared. Details of the fight were made public today by the minister of marine. The Silvershell, commanded by Captain Tom Carlton, sighted the submarine on May 30 in the running fight which followed the American boat proved speedier than its enemy and seemed also to be the master in gunfire. The disappearance of the submarine was sudden.

Rear Admiral LaCaze, minister of marines, said it was unknown whether the submarine was sunk by a shot from the Silvershell or submerged voluntarily.

News of this occurrence was received with immense satisfaction by the French public, coming as it did in the midst of a campaign against the submarine. An American squadron had arrived at a French port.

Admiral LaCaze referred to value of this cooperation and laid emphasis on the multiplication of patrols with the assistance of hydroplanes as the quickest way of disposing of submarines.

The Silvershell, of 5,605 tons, is owned by the Shell Oil company of California. She sailed for America early in May with a crew of forty-eight, in a running fight with a submarine. Her commander comes from New York.

Government Policy.

Washington, June 7.—The Silvershell is the steamer referred to in yesterday's state department announcement as having sunk a German submarine, after an exchange of sixty shots, in a running fight with a submarine. The state department did not announce the name of the steamer because it has been the government's policy not to disclose the names of ships in engagements with submarines. Officials feel it marks the ship for further attack, as they believe was the case with the Mongolian, which was sunk after having been identified with a submarine encounter, has been repeatedly attacked.

Wm. J. Clark of New York, a warrant officer in the navy, who was aboard the American steamer Silvershell, which sank a German submarine in the Mediterranean, today was a splendid piece of work. Secretary Daniels said today, "and we are now considering promotion for Clark who well deserves it."

The navy department received word today that the names of the ships and the names of the officers and crew of the submarine Silvershell and the submarine were made promptly of naval gun crew at the port where the ship arrived, and the account of the battle was confirmed by Secretary Daniels said his advice added nothing to details of the fight already published.

Hardship to Guncrew.

It has been a policy to not mention to identify the gun crew on merchant ships, so as not to add to their hardships. The British have followed this same policy, because in case where the Germans have identified a gun crew or a commander as having attacked or sunk one of their submarines, they have subjected the prisoners to treatment of unusual severity.

KRONSTADT INCIDENT IS DECLARED CLOSED

Petrograd, June 7.—The Kronstadt incident is closed. The local committee of soldiers and workmen delegates has recognized the authority of the provisional government.

The local committee of workmen's and soldiers' delegates at Kronstadt decided on June 1 to assume control of the great forces, and to refuse recognition of the provisional government. The secessionists put forward a program of splitting Russia into a number of self-governing communities and sent missionaries to persuade the neighboring towns to join them. The socialist ministers of the provisional cabinet, Teretelli and Skobolev, went to Kronstadt and endeavored to persuade the secessionists to abandon their plan. The present surrender is apparently a result of their arguments.

WISCONSIN REPORTS 240,170 REGISTERED UNDER DRAFT LAW

Madison, June 7.—The grand total registration in Wisconsin, including whites, blacks, aliens and alien enemies, is 240,170, according to the figures compiled here at the legislative reference library. The figures show that there are 23,709 aliens and alien enemies in the state, and that there are 96,282 whites and blacks in the state who claim exemption. Within the next few days a few additional will be added to these totals. In a telegram to prove marshal general last night, Governor Philip said a few late absentees would still be reported late Thursday.

Work on Draft Plans.

Washington, June 7.—The war department was at work today on registration for the second step in the army draft. At the present time the war department's office clerks were compiling data on the registration Tuesday.

Only Delaware, Vermont and the District of Columbia had reported their registration figures last night, but many more state reports were looked for today.

It may take ten days to complete the nation wide tabulation. Then the war department will prescribe rules for the composition of the board and board of review, to which those drafted may appeal.

HOLD COUNTY LISTS OPEN FOR FEW DAYS

Any Men of Draft Age Who Have for Any Reason Failed to Register Should Do So at Once.

County Clerk Howard W. Lee received a telegram today from Governor E. L. Philip advising him to hold open the county registration lists for the army draft for a few more days, and to accommodate any men between the ages of 21 to 30, both inclusive, who for any reason may have failed to register at the polling places on Tuesday. If they are any such men in Rock county they should not delay but appear at once before the county clerk and register. Governor Philip's telegram said:

Mr. Lee stated today that he believed there were few in Rock county who had not already registered. Several cases have come to his attention, however, of young fellows who believed that they were under twenty-one years of age, that they had passed the age limit, and that they were mistaken in their ages. These men should report at once to the county clerk's office and be registered. Delay or omission will mean serious consequences.

A summary of the registrations for the county was completed last night and forwarded to the governor. It shows that of the 240,170 men of draft age in the county, 2,970 claimed exemptions. There were 109 colored men, or negroes, registered, of whom 43 claimed exemptions. There were registered in the county 792 aliens and 61 alien enemies.

Work of making copies of every registration card was begun today, and a force of twenty-five volunteers will be busy tonight at the county clerk's office in order to complete the lists as soon as possible. The original card of each registrant will be forwarded to the governor and the copies will be kept on file at the court house.

JANESVILLE MAN OFF FOR FRANCE

Leaves for Front as Sergeant in the Ordnance Corps.—Has Been at Government Arsenal.

Ben Jaekle, a former Janesville boy, who has been employed for many years at the Rock Island, has enlisted in the ordnance corps and has already left for France as a sergeant in that service. Mr. Jaekle is well known in this city, where he worked at his trade as a harness maker. For the last nine months he has been at Rock Island, but on May 4th enlisted in the ordnance corps, a special branch of the service open only to skilled artisans who have had government arsenal experience. He left for "somewhere in France" on the following day.

Mr. Jaekle is one of the first Janesville men to be on the way to France in the government service.

ALL NORWAY PROTESTS H. C. OF L. QUIETLY

Christiania, via London, June 7.—The demonstration throughout Norway yesterday against the high cost of living passed quietly. In Christiania forty thousand persons joined in a street parade. A deputation of the demonstrators was received by the president of the Storting.

FOND DU LAC POLICEMEN ASK INCREASE IN PAY

Fond du Lac, Wis., June 7.—On account of the high cost of living, members of the local police department have petitioned the city commission for an increase of $15 per month. The policemen now receive $70, having been granted a raise of $5 per month last January. The petition has not yet been acted upon.

NEW PAPER AT WAUPACA DISPLACES TWO OTHERS

Waupaca, June 7.—The Waupaca County Post will make its first issue Thursday, taking the place of the Record-Leader and the Republic Post, and will be the only newspaper published in Waupaca. The company has purchased a large seven column Huber press which will be installed soon and will otherwise improve its size and appearance. Edward P. Payne is editor of the newspaper and D. F. Burnham, business manager.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hackshaw have returned after two weeks spent at Winfield, Kan., with relatives and friends.

BAN LIQUOR LEGISLATION THIS SESSION

PONES GOVERNOR'S ANTI-WHISKEY BILL, LAST LIQUOR MEASURE.

PASS SUBSTITUTE BILL

Staudenmayer Amendment to Whittier Bill on Reorganizing State Education Board Is Passed in Senate.

Madison, June 7.—There will be no legislation by this legislature for limitation of sale of intoxicants in Wisconsin. This question, which has been the first of the session, has been overshadowed by other issues, and was finally disposed of in the senate today when, by a vote of 19 to 12, a bill which was drawn in the form the governor desired was indefinitely postponed. A motion to reconsider the vote by which the measure was indefinitely postponed was defeated by a viva voce vote.

Pigeonhole Bray Bill.

The assembly non-concurred in the Bray bill creating a joint legislative committee to investigate and to report at the next session questions pertaining to assessment and collection of taxes. Engrainment was given the bill regulating the sale of text books, and limiting the amount of profits from the sale of text books to 16 per cent. This is a copy of a Michigan law on the same subject.

Two amendments to the bill practicing optometry in Wisconsin when the original optometry law became effective to have license to practice without examination, were adopted. The bill increasing the tax rate in cities for support of industrial and continuation schools was non-concurred in.

Reorganizing Substitute.

The senate amended and adopted the Staudenmayer substitute for the Whittier bill reorganizing the state board of education just before the senate recessed until four o'clock. Senator Bray moved reconsideration of this action, but his motion was not put. The Staudenmayer substitute is similar in most respects to the Whittier bill. It provides for a board of nine members, five appointed by the governor, with the governor, superintendent of public instruction and two members, one each to be named by the regents of the university and normal schools. The secretary of state will remain a member until January, 1918.

Two amendments by Wilcox were adopted. One provides that a member named by the governor shall be a woman. Wilcox said this was desirable because of the co-educational character of the higher institution. The other permits the regents to name their members from the state at large instead of limiting their choice to membership of the respective board. An amendment by Bennett to give the board management of the operation of the institution was defeated. Senator Staudenmayer said his amendment would perpetuate the same chaotic condition as now obtained, due to conflict of authority which has invited the state board to trespass on the powers of the regents.

BIG CROP PROSPECT IN WAUPACA COUNTY

Waupaca, Wis., June 7.—Not in years have the prospects been so favorable in Waupaca county for a big crop as now, the rains having made everything grow like weeds. The planting was exceptionally large, much new acreage being given to potatoes and corn and only a frost will blight the hopes of the farmers. The county council of defense is aiding the farmers to get necessary labor, and bankers have supplied funds to enable them to get seed and carry them through.

FAIL TO CARRY OUT STRIKE IN SWEDEN

Stockholm, June 7.—One man was severely wounded and a score slightly hurt in a clash between workers and police before the Reichstag building on Tuesday. The demonstration resulted from appeals by socialists for workers to cease work Tuesday and demonstrate before the parliament building, when the socialist interpretation regarding revision of the constitution, shorter work days and higher wages were scheduled to be reported to by Premier Schwarz. Some agitators openly advocated violence. The police estimated that the rioters, including onlookers numbered 10,000, mostly youths. United States Minister Morris was an interested spectator, and was once obliged to give ground to avoid being involved in the melee.

ITALY TO CURTAIL COAL CONSUMPTION

Washington, June 7.—Italy has determined to cut its consumption of coal and iron in half as a war measure to reduce its ship tonnage in line with the entente policy for meeting the submarine menace is was announced today by the Italian minister, Enrico Ajlorta, a member of the mission and Italian minister for transportation said the reduction was made possible by the intensive development of Italy's water power resources.

NORWEGIAN CHURCH CELEBRATES UNITY

St. Paul, Minn., June 7.—To celebrate the union of three branches of the Norwegian church into one organization to be known as the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, the church held in 2,000 congregations throughout the United States will ring simultaneously next Saturday morning. This was decided upon by the presidents of the three churches, which were delegates are meeting in convention here as a fitting announcement for an unusual great event in the history of the Norwegian church.

LAKE BOATS CRASH; BOTH ARE INJURED

Port Huron, Mich., June 7.—The steamer A. A. Augustus of Cleveland, and the Delaware Transit company of Buffalo, arrived here today badly damaged as a result of a collision in Saginaw Bay yesterday in a fog. The Delaware is at local dry dock with her bow crushed. The Augustus was struck at No. 7 hatch and twelve feet of her side plates were crushed in.

4 DEAD; $750,000 LOSS IN MICHIGAN STORM

Detroit, June 7.—Damage amounting to about $750,000 was wrought and four lives claimed by the wind storm which late yesterday swept across central Michigan. The district which includes Battle Creek, Ann Arbor and Jackson, sustained most of the damage. A score of persons were injured.

Amsterdam, via London, June 7.—The city of Mons has been fined 20,000 pounds sterling, because a Belgian paper published in Holland, announced that Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria was in Mons when the city was bombed by allied airmen.

BRITISH RUSH EARLY TODAY CAPTURE RIDGE IN IMPORTANT SALIENT ON BELGIAN FRONT.

SURROUND WYSCHAETE

Employ Guns of Heavy Calibre in Attacking Present Advance.—German Claim French Suffer Losses.

British headquarters in France, via London, June 7.—The British rush this morning on the Messines-Wyschaete Ridge of the Belgian front, took them well over the ridge, where they are now entrenched.

British Surround Wyschaete.

The village of Wyschaete was reported to have been taken early in the fighting. It was also reported that Lander and Zereba had fallen and that Wyschaete had been surrounded by the British storming troops.

The British also captured important trench positions all the way from Observation ridge to the ridge of Ypres to Ploegsteert Wood, north of Armentieres.

The British in their attack today, probably used twenty percent more guns, especially those of heavy calibre, than they employed in the battle of Arras.

Use Tanks in Fighting.

Tanks were in the thick of the fighting. More than 1,000 Germans were taken prisoners early in the engagement. The fighting continues under mid-summer sun. The Germans have not yet rallied for the expected counter attack.

More than one million pounds of high explosives were blown up under the German forward position. This, the most gigantic mining operation in the history of the war, spread panic among the Germans.

Take French Positions.

Berlin, June 7.—German troops yesterday captured French positions for an extent of nearly one and one-quarter miles on the Belgian front. The Dames front, south of Pargny-Flam in the Alsine region, says the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters staff.

Paris, June 7.—The German statement says, the battle in Flanders fully flared up after the most extensive explosions and most violent drum fire.

The new British offensive is against a sharp German salient, three miles south of Ypres. For several days the British have maintained a tremendous bombardment for almost forty miles on the Belgian front. The salient itself is about three miles in width and the same distance in depth. An effective advance in this sector would seriously menace the German hold on the Belgian front about five miles from the nearest British position.

Attack on St. Quentin.

Paris, June 7.—A strong force of Germans made an attack northwest of St. Quentin at midnight. Today's official announcement says the attackers were caught under shelling from fire and retired after heavy losses.

Report Italian Losses.

London, June 7.—The capture of more than 10,000 Italians in three days is claimed in a Belgian official statement issued on Wednesday. The statement says:

"Italian theatre: The enemy yesterday captured the Italian front line attacks between Zippa valley and the sea, intended to wipe out the defeat she suffered in the last few days on the Carpi plateau. The Italian front line was shattered by our troops by storming a height near Jamiano enlarged their success."

Supreme Austrian Effort.

Udine, June 7.—The Austrian advance on the Italian front showed that the enemy command after repeated attacks in the Vodic zone, thought it necessary to make a supreme effort. The Italian front line was shattered by our troops by storming a height near Jamiano enlarged their success."

Only modification of the line south of Jamiano is due to the fact that the Austrian artillery on Herma could still sweep the front of the Italian positions. The Italian positions are still closely pressed and menaced by the gains made by the Italians in their last advance.

OFFICERS APPOINTED FOR WAUPACA GUARD COMPANY

Waupaca, June 7.—C. L. Andrews of this city has been commissioned captain of Waupaca company, which is being mustered into the fourth Wisconsin regiment. BATTLE CREEK IS CHOSEN FOR SITE OF CANTONMENTS

Wisconsin and Michigan Troops Will be Drilled in Michigan—Rockford Selected for Illinois.

Battle Creek, Michigan, has been selected by the special board of army officers who visited Janesville some weeks ago to inspect the site offered here for the establishment of the cantonment for the training of the army division of Wisconsin and Michigan troops to be raised under the selective draft. General Barry of the central department of the United States army wired the war department at Washington the official finding of the board and doubtless the Michigan city will be selected.

The day the army board inspected the Janesville site offered of two thousand five hundred acres, was one of the most incident of the spring. It was rainy and cold, despite which fact the officers expressed themselves as much pleased with the land offered them, both from the point of salubritude and the railroad facilities.

According to the official dispatch from Washington, Rockford has been chosen as the location for the Illinois division, Ohio, for the Ohio and West Virginia division, and Lexington, Ky., as a possible site for the Indiana and Kentucky division.

Other sites picked for the other two divisions are comprising Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, and Nebraska, and the other comprising Kansas and Missouri, also were made by General Barry and will be approved by the war department within a few days.

It is expected that the war department will announce formally the selection of these sites within a few days. General Barry's recommendations are almost sure to be followed, it was understood, and formal approval only awaits the return of the secretary of war to Washington.

On these six cantonment camp sites will be erected cities to accommodate populations of 30,000 soldiers each before Sept. 1. The cantonments will be constructed of wood and will be one and two stories in height. It will require approximately 4,000 carloads of lumber and material to build each cantonment camp. It is estimated that these cantonments will mean a temporary increase of 150,000 in the population of the cities which get the sites.

Many Places Offered Free.

Hundreds of sites, offered free by commercial clubs and citizens, have been inspected by boards appointed recently by General Barry. The final recommendations of these boards were made to General Barry Sunday night and he wired his recommendations to the war department on Tuesday.

The camp sites will comprise approximately 5,000 acres each. In some cases they have been loaned to the government free of charge and in other cases the government will have to lease the sites. Each site will be the training grounds for members of the new national army which will be called to the colors about Sept. 1.

The selection of the above named cities as the cantonment camp sites will mean a great deal to the citizens, the merchants and the manufacturers. Several cities were prepared to spend as much as $400,000 to obtain the sites.

Guardmen to Go South.

No guardmen will be sent to the cantonment camps. Since they will go to France this fall, they will be sent south immediately after mobilization this summer.

The new national army units are sent to France they will be replaced by other increments, so that the cantonment camps will be filled with soldiers from Sept. 1 to the end of the war.

BELOIT FAR BEHIND ON LIBERTY LOAN

Line City More Than $50,000 Below Janesville in Total Subscriptions to Bond Issue.

Although the allotment to Beloit on the Liberty Loan is practically the same amount as had been assessed to Janesville, subscriptions are slow in the Line City, which at present is $50,000 behind Janesville. Latest figures on Beloit subscriptions show a total of $35,000. Janesville's subscriptions are now approximately $140,000.

More active campaigns will be necessary in both cities if they expect to raise $400,000 in each before June 15.

TROUBLE IN RESTAURANT LANDS THEM IN COURT

Bert Grodovant drew his pay at the city hall yesterday and invited Elmer Bassett to have lunch with him at Jack Conley's Cafe. After the meal, it is alleged Grodovant refused to pay for the meals, insulted the waitress and threw tobacco over the counter.

In police court this morning Bert was fined fifteen and cost over twenty days and Bassett was penalized one dollar.

URGES CITY EMPLOY ENOUGH FIREMEN TO MAN STATIONS RIGHT

Fire Chief Report to Commission Noon and Supper Dangers Threaten Through Lack of Men.

Janesville's protection against fire at the daily meal hours is deplorable. Some times there is not a single man available to pull a line of hose off a fire wagon and attach the hose to a hydrant.

These are the statements of Chief Henry C. Klein, as contained in his annual report filed today with City Clerk J. P. Harward and to be presented tomorrow to the meeting of the city commission. It is perhaps the most important phase of the entire report, and following it up the chief says, "Something must be done to better this condition, or I am fearful that it may result in disaster when some of our large buildings or factories are abse."

Consolidation of the fire stations or the adding of more men are the only means to eliminate the danger, the chief reports, and says directly, "I am ready to confess that I see no way to remedy this condition except to add more men to the department or consolidate the fire stations."

The report shows that in the three fire stations there are but twenty-three men, four officers and nineteen men. In addition there is an independent fire police company of twenty men, about half a dozen of whom, if they were made up of a wagon and follow the municipal apparatus upon alarm. To a large extent it is necessary to rely on these volunteers at noon and supper hours.

Previously, the fire police company has purchased these rubber covers for the department, but the company's covers are empty now and the tarpaulins at present in use are well worn. Chief Klein requests the city to make the purchase.

Among other department recommendations made by the chief are: The placing of a large underground gasoline tank at No. 1 station to take advantage of market in regard to price; purchase a device to register the number of gallons of water passing through a nozzle, hose or hydrant or small pipe.

The aggregate amount of losses by fire for the year ending December 31, 1916, was, in round figures, $8,500.

JANESVILLE WOMEN WILL HELP WIN WAR

Will Co-operate in Effort to Secure Record Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan.

Women can help America win this war. This fact was brought home to the women of the City Federation this morning at a board meeting of the organization held at Janesville Center. S. M. Smith gave an earnest and forceful presentation of the fact that it is up to women to win this war, that the nation is in it, and it is up to the people to stand back of the government.

This first bond issue, he said, is the first opportunity given the people to express their sentiment, and the foreign powers are waiting to see what the citizens of America will do, for this first financial effort.

The great moral effect not only on Germany, but on all the world, can hardly be over-estimated if this bond issue is enthusiastically subscribed.

The men of the city have just begun to realize, he said, the potential force, which the woman can exert in civic affairs. They had begun to feel that they must be consulted and their aid solicited in the larger question of community welfare. At this time when the nation is calling for aid, the women of the city can render very material service and it was this service which the bankers and business men of the city asked for now.

The men hoped that a very large number of women would make a house to house canvass to help them in sending in a large subscription from Janesville for this loan. The fact that it was a very good investment, with its annual 3 1/2 per cent, backed up by the government credit, was also emphasized; also the plan for regular monthly payments and other details of the loan was explained.

It was voted by the federation that a general mass meeting of the women of the city be called for tomorrow afternoon at library hall to take concerted action on the matter.

Married in Rockford: Mrs. Mary G. Beidelman and George R. Hungerford, both of this city, were married in Rockford on Wednesday, June 6. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. A. Sheets of the First Baptist church. They will reside in Janesville.

Cultivate Corn With Care Now

Cultivate the corn well. This is the advice urged upon all farmers this year by the government experts and the colleges of agriculture. Since the season has been cold and backward, the corn has gotten but a poor start and the weeds have been more than keeping pace with it. Therefore it is necessary that the first cultivation be very well done. The corn roots are now small, and one can cultivate close to them, thus killing the weeds, saving hoeing later on, and making a larger yield possible.

The United States and her allies need corn. Do your bit, and cultivate carefully now.

M'CARTHY TO GIVE ADVICE TO HOOVER

Madison, Wis., June 7.—Dr. Charles McCarthy, head of the legislative reference library, left for Washington last night on request from National Food Commissioner Herbert Hoover. Dr. McCarthy is called to Washington to cooperate with the federal ton to cooperate with reference to plans for handling food products. He is also called there to confer on the labor situation and to give his advice in solving the labor problem which has arisen as a result of the war in calling so many men out of employment to join the army.

Of course you needn't take our advice if you don't want to, but if you live in a glass house you ought to build a high board fence around it.—Dallas News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 7.—The state industrial commission today announced its awards for the 22nd Elmer C. Tophill fever cases. It made awards totaling $5,356.83 in the seven cases involved.

In the latter part of June and the early part of July, of 1914, thirteen workmen employed by the New Delta Lumber company, and two men employed by the Pioneer Furniture company, contracting with the lumber company, died of typhoid fever, two of whom died. The widow of one of these men, Mrs. Frieda Venn, thereafter brought suit at common law against the lumber company, claiming that the death of her husband had been caused by the negligence of the company in supplying infected water to its employees. This case was carried to the supreme court of the state, which held that any claim which the widow might have, would be under the compensation law.

Mrs. Venn and Mrs. Holst, the widow of the other man who died, and five of the men employed by the New Delta Lumber company, who had contracted typhoid fever, then died, applied with the industrial commission for compensation. The commission now finds that the typhoid fever in these cases was contracted through the drinking of infected water supplied from the private system maintained by the New Delta Lumber company. It bases this finding upon the fact that there were no other cases of typhoid in Eau Claire at the time, and the fact that the water and milk used in the homes of these men was from the private system. On the other hand, the water supplied by the lumber company to its employees was polluted, because the intake pipe of its private system, contaminated by sewage, was mixed with the water from the city water works. The commission therefore awards death benefits to the widows, and compensation for the time lost through sickness, to the other applicants.

In accordance with the decision of the supreme court, these awards are made in these cases holds that typhoid fever, contracted by an employee as a result of drinking polluted water furnished by the employer, is an injury, and is not covered by the Wisconsin compensation act, unless such diseases are proximately caused by accident, as in these cases.

PERSHING CLOSE UP; HOUND FOR DETAILS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, June 7.—Someone once said that genius is a military quality. It is not unlikely there will be three weeks of work before final adjournment can be accomplished. This seems to be the opinion of the men who have served longest in the legislature and who realize the delay in gathering up the odds and ends of legislation.

There is still considerable work in the legislature to do. The senate has before it ninety-five bills of its own. Since the session began 445 bills have been offered to the senate, which 144 have been passed; 157 have been indefinitely postponed and 157 have been withdrawn. Of the 344 senate bills that have passed the upper house, 232 have been carried in by the assembly. There is still pending in the senate four senate joint resolutions, two senate resolutions, nine assembly joint resolutions and six assembly bills. Under the ordinary progress made in a legislature this is sufficient to keep the mill grinding for over two weeks, to say nothing about the new bills that have been suggested by Governor Philipp.

The assembly has seventy-one bills of its own to give consideration to. Since the commencement of the session 499 bills have been offered in the assembly of which 319 have passed that house, 256 have been indefinitely postponed and forty-three have been withdrawn. Five assembly bills have been vetoed by the governor.

The senate has before it for consideration seventy-three senate bills, one assembly joint resolution and three senate joint resolutions. The assembly is ahead of the senate in its work. But there are a number of important measures in the senate that if they pass that house will occupy considerable time in the house. A float of the appropriation bills have been disposed of. There are a few small appropriation bills for state departments and the senate is originally it was intended to have an adjournment June 21, the possibility is that the time will be nearer July 1. Much depends upon the amount of time which the legislature will give to new bills being offered.

GERMANS WAR ON FRENCH BLOOD, RAGE

Paris, June 7.—"We are not making war solely against French arms and French territory, but against Frenchmen generally, your women, children and everything that belongs to the French blood and race."

This is what the German commanding officer in Noyon told Senator Noel, mayor of Noyon, before the Germans sacked the town. Shortly before the destruction began, the commander summoned Noel and demanded that he name specific instances of senseless atrocities and vandalism committed by the Kaiser's troops. Noel put in fifteen minutes after instance with full details. The crimes charged included rape, burglary, assault, arson and murder. After having listened to the commander expressed such conduct the saying his countrymen were warring against "French blood and race."

One of the instances cited was the case of little André, a child who was beaten with a cane for failing to salute an officer, then forced to salute a dummy draped with a German uniform until he fell exhausted, and finally bayoneted and killed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 7.—If you are a tramp, keep away from Wisconsin. If you have been feeding tramps stop this kind-hearted practice and tell them to go to work.

These two orders went out today from the state council of defense after a conference which was attended by chiefs of police of fourteen principal cities, at which the tramp problem was discussed. The state council recently began an investigation of the tramp problem, the object being to turn this class of labor into producing channels. It was realized that this problem is an old one, unsolved after many experiments have been tried, but, if there is a way, Wisconsin is going to turn tramps into workers and keep those who will not work outside the borders of the state.

According to the statements of the police chiefs, many thousands of idlers are to be found in Wisconsin, most of them mere drifters, but some of them men who have the privilege of the ballot and whose wives support them by taking in washing.

To take care of the former class, some further legislation may be asked. The latter are to be reached, if possible, through the influence of their local communities and by giving to be a badge of honor in Wisconsin to be an idler during the war.

Among the suggestions made was the idea of a state farm for tramps and vagrants to be established in the northern part of the state, upon cut-over land. It was impressed upon the conference by several of the police chiefs that to be successful this undertaking should have the personal interest of the worker back of it. Many other suggestions were made, all depending upon legislation.

Among the chiefs of police who attended the conference were: John J. Janssen of Milwaukee, Chief Baker of Racine, Chief Dowling of Oshkosh, Chief McKinney of Superior, Chief Hawley of Green Bay, Grotman of Manitowish, S. A. Pelton of Baraboo, Sheriff Robert Whipple of Janesville, Chief Shaughnessy of Appleton, Chief Weber of La Crosse, Chief McKay of Waukesha, Chief Qualmann of Wausau, Chief Mann of Oconomowoc, and Chief Sendley of Eau Claire.

BELGIAN OFFICIALS JAILED BY GERMANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Brussels, June 7.—A number of Belgian officials who remained in that country after the invasion have refused to continue their service under the administrative division of the country directed by the German government. One of these patriots, M. Sauveur, general secretary to the minister of the interior, wrote a letter of protestation in which he declared that he refused to be a German official. He fixed his residence in Germany, the "fixed residence" being construed here as prison.

ACTUAL DEMONSTRATION.

There was an actual demonstration on Tuesday of the interest that the women of the city show in civic affairs. When six hundred of the "gentler sex" marched in a parade to demonstrate their loyalty, while dozens of others spent the day making lunches for the selective draft men, the value of the co-operation of the women of the city in any civic matter was actually demonstrated.

The women of the city have made the Janesville Center a possibility. They have by their untiring efforts supported this worthy institution and through their individual efforts brought it to the stage of efficiency that it now holds. That the scope of such an institution as the Janesville Center should be broadened is thoroughly understood by all who know of its valuable work and it is up to the citizens to see that it is given quarters and equipment to continue to become more valuable to the entire community.

But to return to the Duty Day work of the women. They have clearly demonstrated that they are the backbone of the civic life. By their unselfish devotion to the interests of the community they have taken their place in the ranks of every citizen and have shown the world at large that they have a right to demand a voice in public affairs.

Janesville has reason to be proud of its women's organizations and the work they are seeking to accomplish. They should be given every possible support and their value will increase accordingly. If more women go into the ranks of the first line of defense they are in reality the main line of defense of the nation and deserve recognition.

INTEREST IN GARDEN WORK.

The garden movement has necessarily become mostly an appeal to the people to raise food for patriotic reasons. But many persons who are taking hold with this feeling of obligation are going to find pleasure in it and will discover that they have found a new diversion. After the aches and soreness incident to using new muscles have passed off, they will find that it is not all drudgery as they anticipated.

A great many people have always known this and have kept up garden work not merely for reasons of family economy, but because they found it agreeable and interesting.

It is like any other form of constructive skill. The moment that by reason of intelligent knowledge you are able to produce a valuable result in spite of difficulties, it is a pleasure to put forth the necessary effort.

Garden work introduces you to the personality of the different plants and the true enthusiast feels a keen interest in all their ways. He learns that this one needs a great deal of sunshine and that one a special amount of moisture. Some are sensitive to cold and must be planted late. Others are bold and hardy and can go in early. Some are tough creatures of poor soils, and will hold up their independent heads on almost any kind of land. Others are more creatures of luxury, requiring much coddling with fertilizers and water before they produce their luscious fruit. The gardener who watches all these different habits comes to look on his plants as a kind of family in which all must be nursed and trained according to their individual temperaments.

When any one acquires this knowledge, it is with a sense of triumph that he produces handsome potatoes and beans and peas after a struggle with the adverse forces of nature, and no vegetable brought in a grocery store ever begins to taste so well.

ARMY FAVORITISM.
It is already manifest that our newly created army is going to have before it a big problem in personal favoritism. It will take all the resolution and independence of our public men and our army chiefs to meet it.

First there will come up the question of the making of appointments from the men trained in the new camps. There is going to be an intense rivalry. All these young men are bent on military success and look for the higher rewards, both of glory and money. It is human nature to expect that they will work personal pulls.

A certain type of men will try to get by on their social nature and good fellowship. By their smooth address, and winsome ways they will ingratiate themselves with the ones higher up and the men in power will be impressed. At the same time many a quiet fellow without social gifts, but strictly attentive to work and studious, will have more of soldierly gifts. It will take discrimination to make appointments solely on merit and not be misled by social friendship.

Then the report comes from Washington that a host of veterans are being sent on the departments, demanding commissions for personal friends who up to now know nothing about military work. Now officers are going to be short, and the officials may think they have excuse for making appointments of untrained men on the basis of the promises they hold out, if not on personal pull.

It will be fatal to the morale of the army if the idea spreads that appointments are going to be made through political influence. The men who have been doing the hard work of the training camps and who now are taking their work in these camps must be given the preference over the friends of politicians.

The people who make fun of the rosette hopes expressed by the graduating essays are usually the same ones who find fault because no one in their town has the courage to go ahead and do anything.

A lot of our wise patriots who blame the government so severely for not having munition supplies, are the same ones who formerly would not vote for congressmen who believed in preparedness.

Not all the slackers are slouchy and disreputable looking toughs who won't go to war. Some of them occupy swell front houses and can't buy Liberty bonds because they only pay 3 1/2 per cent.

That disturbance up in the residence district is not an anti-draft riot, but merely the guests at a fashionable wedding giving the couple a pleasant little send-off.

Not merely is the shortage of tin cans distressing to the housewife, but the boys complain that they are hard up for anything to tie to the tails of stray dogs.

The Russian army can't fight because it has no food or munitions, and the food and munition workers can't work because the army controls everything.

At the Atlantic coast resorts our youth are showing their patriotism by sitting out on the ends of the piers with their best girls looking for submarines.

The government could do a lot to make those three cent postage stamps popular by treating the stickum with some of the latest soda fountain fruit flavors.

If a German would come out and stand in front of the Russian trenches the Russian army might be willing to fire at him just to white away the time.

Some of the deer hunters who are so successful in shooting guides in the woods every fall, will be mighty useful in the French trenches about now.

It is denied that the United States is short on military equipment, as the new recruits can all be provided with broomsticks and wooden guns to drill with.

If we can't use food speculators to decorate lamp posts with as many of us would like to, they will at least be highly ornamental occupants of our jails.

Recent gifts of our higher ups to good public causes have of course no connection with increases in price of the necessities of life which they sell.

It is not absolutely necessary for the anti-submarine device inventors to tell the public all about their schemes before going out to destroy a few.

After bitterly denouncing congress for its dawdling delays, a good many men who intended to buy a Liberty bond will forget to do so.

The persistence with which Berlin denies that there are submarines in our waters is proof conclusive that they are over here.

Some of these anti-draft plotters will soon have a chance to exercise all their ingenuity in plotting how to escape from jail.

The baccalaureate exercises are valued by the girl graduates as a preliminary try-on of the new gown.

It is much easier to get up a riot against the empire than against conscription.

It is much pleasanter to pay taxes to Washington than an indemnity to Berlin.

Flag raisings are fine, but vegetable raisings are still finer.

AS YE SOW.

Mrs. Henry Blitters, sitting embroiling a teapot in a becoming old-fashioned gown set off at the neck and wrists with a touch of majolica, suddenly remembered.

"Oh, mercy," she exclaimed. "I must go out and see how my garden is getting on."

"Garden?" said Blitters. "Garden?"

"Oh, yes," she assured him. "I felt simply must plant something, after reading all about everything in the paper."

"Tut, tut," he said. "I planted a 'Tut, tut' of Russian turtle bean seeds. 'Tut, tut' bean seeds?"

"Tut, tut," he said. "They must have been turtle bean seeds—they were exactly like the pictures of Russian turtle bean seeds. I found them in the top drawer of your dressing table."

Blitters hastily loosened his collar. "Woman," he said, in a hoarse, tense voice, "if you've gone and done anything with that box of wooden collar buttons that I've been saving out of my laundered shirts for five years—"

And he rushed out into the yard, and Mrs. Blitters rushed out after him.

And it was too late. The whole side of the yard had already sprouted with little wooden button-holes.

TROTTER STALLION

SELLS FOR $30,100

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, June 7.—The Harvester, 201 trotting stallion in the stock of C. K. G. Billings, was sold at public auction on Wednesday for $30,100 to Paul Kuhn of Terre Haute, Ind. The Harvester formerly was owned by a Milwaukee man.

TODAY'S WAR RECIPE.

From Britain's Official War-time War Cook Book.
Fish pie for four people. One pound of fish, one tablespoonful of margarine, two hard-boiled eggs, one tablespoonful of maize, chopped parsley, four heaped tablespoonfuls of cooked rice, one cupful of fish stock, seasoning to taste. Boil and flake the fish. Grease a pie-dish, put a layer of fish at the bottom, then layers of other ingredients.

PERSHING AND STAFF WILL BE FIRST AMERICAN FIGHTERS TO REACH FRANCE

Major General John J. Pershing (star) and his staff.

Major General John J. Pershing, who will command the first American army in France, will leave at once with his staff, according to an announcement by the war department. He will be followed by a force of 25,000 regulars, who will soon be fighting in the trenches shoulder to shoulder with British and French troops.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

JUNE.

June brings the lovely morning skies. She brings the afternoons the fairest. Her nights are filled with lovers' sighs. Her days are reckoned far the rarest.

June brings June brides,—more love-iness. Then all the other months together. She brings the woodland's fairest dress. And, as a rule, delightful weather.

So very sweet a charm and grace. The month of June is ever bringing. That here, for but a little space. Her praises we are sweetly singing.

In June once more we are the boy. And then all sorts of prankish stunts do. June brings more hours of happy joy. Than any of the other months do.

June brings—but let us tell the worst. Though all her other charms it smother. June brings around the first. Her bliss like any of the others!

HAPPY THOUGHT.
Don't get into a rut and you won't get into arrears.

How to Can Things.
With so many war gardens growing this summer lots of us will probably find we have a good many things left over next fall. We will set to the garden idea with such unbounded enthusiasm that we will grow a lot more than we need. Then next fall there will be peas and beans and lima beans left over that we haven't picked yet and will not wish to throw away.

One asks, "What is to be done with these?" Here is our suggestion: Can them. Let us all raise our own canned goods. Any tinmith will let you have plenty of second-hand tin for the asking. Mark this off into separate pieces and mark one "Peas," another "Tomatoes," another "Corn" and so on. If you have a piece of tin left over mark it "Vegetable Soup." You could make a can out of that piece for all the peas and beans that are left over.

War on waste. After the cans are all made comes the filling them. This may be done in the evenings. Then fix the tops on tightly so that when you go to open the can you will curse as much as you do over a real store can.

The paper wrapper that must be pasted on the outside of the can is the most expensive part. It costs a lot to get these printed, especially the ones for the tomatoes. But you get the tin for nothing and besides think what fun to be raising your own canned goods.

Pet Pests.
My, how intensely one dislikes A pest like Hubert Victor Sykes!

When you are glum then he is gay. Or else it's just the other way.

He sneers when you are full of glee. Few pests are quite so sour as he.

15 SCHOOLS TRAIN MERCHANT MARINERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, June 7.—Plenty of men with nautical experience probably will be found to enter the fifteen schools soon to be established along the New England coast for training officers for the new merchant marine, the federal shipping board said today in announcing plans to train about 10,000 men.

BADGER GIRL, NURSE WIRES OF ARRIVAL

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Waupaca, June 7.—Miss Freda Larson of Sheridan, Wisconsin, cabled home yesterday from England, announcing her safe arrival on the steamer Mongolia on which she was an eye witness to the accident which killed two nurses. Miss Larson is a graduate of the 1911 class of the Waupaca high school, going to the University of Chicago and becoming a registered nurse, later taking a post graduate course and assisting in settlement work at the outbreak of the war, when she enlisted with the American Red Cross and sailed with the twelfth unit for the front. She said no blame should be attached to the crew for the explosion which killed her two companion nurses.

SHOES FOR NEW ARMY AT $4.75 PER PAIR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Contracts for 750,000 additional pairs of shoes for the new army were awarded Wednesday at an average price of $4.75 a pair. The government now has ordered 3,500,000 pairs for the army and 500,000 for the navy. Their total cost will be about $20,000,000. The average price is much below the market.

Among the successful bidders were Schmelz and company, St. Paul, and F. Mayer Boot and Shoe company, Milwaukee, Wis.

The LIBERTY LOAN of 1917

An Appeal By the Banks of Janesville for the Co-Operation of All Loyal and Patriotic Citizens of Rock County

The Government of the United States having declared a state of war to exist between our country and the Imperial Government of Germany, it has become the privilege and duty of all loyal citizens to serve their country, each according to his ability, through the purchase of Government Bonds. The undersigned Janesville banks have offered their services to the Government and to all those who wish to support the Government by subscribing to the 3 1/2% Liberty Loan of 1917.

A large part of this loan has already been subscribed, primarily by large investors whose broad experience in investments has made them realize the desirability of purchasing United States Government 3 1/2% bonds at par—the best security in the world, and one which is free from Federal, State or Local taxation, except inheritance taxes. Small investors who are offered the privilege of purchasing these same government securities at the same price and on the same terms, should and must co-operate liberally to make the loan a success.

The Treasury Department has announced its intention of depositing the proceeds of government bond sales as largely as possible with the banks in communities where subscriptions are taken. This keeps the money at home. We believe Janesville and Rock County will far oversubscribe their share.

LOCAL CHAUTAUQUA TO BE OF SPECIAL APPEAL THIS YEAR

Will be Held in Janesville July Third to Eighth, Inclusive, as Feature of Summer Season.

All arrangements have been made for the Lincoln Chautauqua which is to be held in Janesville this year, from July third to eighth, inclusive, and the city promises a series of programs which in interest and popular appeal will take precedence over anything of the kind that has been shown in this city in past years.

Under the direction of President A. S. Kritz and the secretary, Reverend C. W. Cummings, the various local committees of the local chautauqua association have gone ahead with the preparations for the 131 season with unusual success. It has been considered fortunate that Janesville was able to secure dates which it has, in that the period not only includes the Fourth of July, but comes early enough in the summer season to precede the usual vacation time.

The program, while varied and calculated to appeal to all interests, presents a most satisfactory picture of that building up the community, both from the social and the communal side. The entertainments, which last from Tuesday through the following Sunday, are made up of numbers given by men and women of national prominence, both as musicians and as speakers.

On the Fourth of July, the second day of the program, Nets Darling is scheduled to make two addresses on town building. Mr. Darling is one of the few men in the country who have attained real prominence in the community work, and his talks are calculated to be of vital interest to all interested in the development of the community. Another feature of the Fourth of July program is a patriotic parade, which is being planned now by the committee under the direction of Edward Amerphol. Historic pageantry will be given much prominence in this event, and it is probable that a large number of school children will participate in this part of Janesville's same Fourth celebration.

At this time, the city is in a change is unable to make definite announcement as to where the chautauqua will be held, but all other arrangements for the series have been completed. It is likely that a plot of ground of suitable size will be secured as near the center of the city as is possible.

A complete program of the chautauqua was published in the advertising columns of the Gazette Wednesday. Season tickets may be purchased for the entire series, thus saving a considerable sum in admission prices. The prices for these tickets will this year be two dollars for adults and one dollar for children between eight and fifteen.

Considerable care has been exercised by the local association this year in keeping the expense of the attraction down without detracting from its character. The lavishly equipped chautauqua, was regarded as out of place in the present national crisis and unnecessary expense has been eliminated in many places.

The entertainments are calculated to appeal to all, and a large attendance from the rural districts is looked for. The chautauqua is a requisites of all chautauqua entertainments, and to this quality is added the attraction of timely importance in all of the subjects upon which the speakers will talk.

Mrs. Charles Park left Wednesday for Kinball, Nebraska, for a visit with her aged parents. She will be gone for some time and will probably visit in Denver, Colorado, before her return.

Mrs. John Porter entertained the teachers who have been with Mrs. Haylett for the school year, at a thirty dinner Wednesday. The following were her guests: Mrs. M. S. Simmons, Gladys Miller, Evelyn Swan, Alma Ula and Messrs. G. R. McArthur and Floyd Kneif.

Miss Patchen left Tuesday for her home in Los Angeles, California, after a visit with local relatives. Mrs. Elizabeth Gillies entertained in her honor Monday evening.

Miss Alice Wilder is home from Milwaukee normal for the summer vacation from her home here.

Mrs. Lyman Johnson is in Madison, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Harper.

Miss Crystal Snyder of Footville spent Wednesday with Miss Ruth Acheson.

Al Clifford of Racine made a short visit with his mother, Mrs. Lucy Clifford, recently.

Mrs. Michael Ludden and Mrs. Will Bliven went to Whitewater Wednesday to attend commencement exercises of Whitewater normal, where Miss Mary Ludden will graduate today.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Toiles of Milwaukee are expected home tomorrow for a visit with local relatives and to attend the alumni banquet of the E. H. S. tomorrow evening.

Miss Irene Libby leaves for Chicago this week for an extended visit with relatives.

Lou Van Wart will go to Waukesha Friday morning to attend the commencement exercises at Carroll College, where his daughter, Miss Mary, is numbered among the graduates.

Miss Lillian Heron is home from Madison for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ludden are at the Red Cross meeting last night at the city hall. Many more joined the society at this meeting, and the outlook is very encouraging. The society is working for a membership of five hundred.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

The quarters occupied by Gladys Brockwell in the new studios at Hollywood, Cal., are said to be the most luxurious ever occupied by a screen star. Library, boudoir, wardrobe apartment, parlor, luncheon room, kitchen and bath—all are included in the section of the building set aside for the personal and exclusive use of the star. The luncheon room and kitchen enable Miss Brockwell to have her own chef prepare meals for her while she is working on pictures. The library affords her plenty of reading matter for between-scene waits, and the tiled bath is a welcome relaxation after the heavy work of the day. Her wardrobe apartment is enormous chests and closets equipped for the proper care of a large number of costumes. The parlor is used as a reception room for visitors and contains among other things, a baby grand piano. The boudoir, sacred to all the traditions of actordom, contains all the latest fashions, and Miss Brockwell needs for an infinite variety of make-ups.

M. CHAPLIN OF PARIS. Charlie Chaplin is pictured in a series of comic sketches in a review printed in France. He's shown interviewing the kaiser.

The following were elected as the board of directors: Mesdames Alice Frost, E. Lehman, Bert Holmes, Leonard Eager, C. M. Smith, Jr., Maggie Baker, C. E. Lee, Fred Hanson, Eva Phipps, Ethel Frost, May Shreve, Warren Cain, Minnie Green, V. A. Axtell, acting mayor. The president of the Commercial club, Dr. George Spencer, health officer, Rev. Father McEnamott, M. L. Paulson. The first four officers of the society, together with Rev. G. R. Lawrence, Mrs. Jay Baldwin and Mrs. Cherry, made up the executive committee. Will all persons who signed for membership in the Red Cross society kindly pay the one dollar membership fee to R. D. Hunt, the treasurer, as promptly as possible.

The Code of Honor.

Dueling is a survival from the ancient judicial combats which were at their height in the middle ages. The first formal duel among English speaking peoples was in 1096. France seems to have been the land in which the "code" had its most flourishing times. From France the practice passed over to England, and from England it came over to America. In the early days of our country duels were quite common, but since Burr killed Hamilton the practice steadily declined. It is today a very rare thing for a duel to take place in any civilized land, and in the United States the foolish custom is really extinct.—New York American.

Indispensable.

At length the tools grew tired of having adages made at their expense, and at a concerted signal all fell dead.

At the funeral wile men were seen to weep bitterly.

The Famous Players points with pride to the list of authors whose works have been the basis of recent photoplays from their studios. The list includes Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, Gelett Burgess, Basil Kin, George Broadhurst, George Middleton, Edwin Milton Roy, Owen Johnson, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Robert Hichens, and Gene Stratton-Porter.

Carmel Myers has signed a two years' contract and will appear in feature pictures. This decision was reached by Miss Myers after many offers had been made her.

AMUSEMENTS

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

MYERS THEATRE.

The following clipping from the Baraboo News tells about the wonderful picture "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," in a very clear manner: "The picture is a thing in which the whole world is just now manifesting deep interest, was carried into Baraboo last night, when '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea' made its appearance at the Ringling theatre. A capacity audience saw the grim and truthful detail just how a U-boat goes about its mission of death and the torpeding of a ship furnished by science the biggest thrills ever offered by a photoplay.

"The picture is so far different from anything ever before offered here that one leaves the theatre astounded at the immensity of it. The greater part of the story is portrayed under the water, where actor-divers hunt for pearls and battle man-eating sharks with a carelessness of person that is amazing.

"Last night's audience sat spell-bound before the mysteries and the treasure of old ocean, but they were denied to human sight until the Williamson brothers 'invented their submarine camera.

Among the sights unfolded on the floor of the sea, were brilliant marine gardens where great sponge beds vied with huge coral deposits in color effect; strange freaks of the piscatorial kind never before classified by science; mountains and valleys beneath the waves. Perhaps the greatest single thrill was furnished by an octopus and a pearl diver when the former attacked the latter in his tentacles. The encounter ended when Capt. Nemo, the story's hero, appeared on the scene with an axe and dispatched the monster.

"To strengthen the plot and knit the action into a firmer piece, the producers dressed here and there from the story of '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea' and introduced the parts of 'Drops of the Sky' and 'Mysterious Island,' other stories of Verne. The result was to season the offering with a bit of a love story which lightens the evening's entertainment.

"There are three threads of plots running through the entire show, but these are picked up toward the conclusion and woven together with great dramatic skill.

"The beginning shows the submarine 'Nautilus' as the terror of the ocean. Ships are being sunk on every sea and all the nations of the world are giving their attention to the destruction of the marauder, which is believed to be an enormous whale. About the time of the civil war the American government dispatches a frigate to find the cause of this mysterious shipping.

The frigate is rammed and Mr. Aronax, a French scientist, who was aboard the warship, was hurled into the sea with his daughter and two members of the crew. The 'Nautilus' rescues the victims of its wrath and they are made comfortable in the submarine. Capt. Nemo, the man of vengeance who commands the boat, treats them kindly and shows them the wonders at the bottom of the sea. Their experiences furnish the big thrills of the picture.

About the time four balloons descend from the Union army are blown out to sea and stranded on 'Mysterious Island,' whose only previous inhabitant is a wild girl. They learn from her that a man had been there when a small child by an Englishman who had attacked her mother, a princess in India. The mother took her own life to avoid her attacker's capture.

A few weeks after the balloons land and while the 'Nautilus' is in nearby waters, a yacht touches at the island. Capt. Nemo finds it is commanded by a man he had devoted his life to destroy. He orders the yacht torpedoed and succeeds in destroying the boat. The soldiers from the island are rescued by the 'Nautilus' and with them the wild girl.

"Capt. Nemo discovers she is his daughter, who was abducted at the time of his wife's tragic death. After this discovery, Capt. Nemo dies on his submarine. His burial in a graveyard at the bottom of the sea is one of the most startling scenes ever filmed. In '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea,' we have a production that shows us as long as an educational institution. There is not a blurb in the whole eight reels. It is a credit to the motion picture industry and should go far in putting the great industry on a higher plane."

Tea Drinking in Siam. Tea is to be found in every tent and dwelling in Siam. There is always a kettle on the fire filled with tea and prepared for drinking, which is done by adding milk, butter and salt. This is their way of fixing this beverage. A peculiar mode of hospitality is shown by these people in reference to their tea. It is always at the disposal of every stranger and traveler. He need not ask for it. Neither is it expected that he should, but he must have his own cup. This is imperative, and accordingly every one carries a cup with him at all times. Some of these utensils are marvels of workmanship and are highly valued.

"Hanging it," said Winters, now utterly forgetful of conventions, "it wasn't the thing to do to crew a gun on a little old man, and I'm sorry I did it."

"And now that we've apologized you'll tell us the truth, won't you?" asked Rodney swiftly, with no appreciable change of manner.

"Yes, we beg it now, humbly," chimed in Winters, with anything but a humble air or voice.

"I won't have Mr. Shurtliff even appended to now," said Miss Illingworth. "You have threatened him and you have apologized. Whether he forgives you or not is for him to decide, but he shall not be worried, or questioned, or insulted any more."

"Thank you, Miss Illingworth. I came for that book on the desk; your father wants it," said Shurtliff grimly, bowing slightly to her.

He stepped a little tentatively—the scene had been unvarnished—just the young men, picked up the book, bowed again formally and unmistakably to Miss Illingworth alone, and went out of the door. The honors of the encounter were certainly his.

"Well, Miss Illingworth," said Winters, "I don't know whether you made a mistake or not. I think I could have scared it out of him with this little persuader of mine." He tapped the butt of the pistol.

"You couldn't have done it if you had killed him," said the woman, who had cast the old secretary correctly. "He isn't what I call a daring man, but he has courage that would take him to the stake rather than make him give way, the courage of endurance rather than of action. When he speaks, if he ever does, it will be of his own free will."

"Or because you may persuade him," said Rodney. "By jove, when I think it over, it was the finest thing you ever did."

"But Meade's a lucky fellow," said Winters. "You're the kind of a girl that ought to marry out West, where we try to breed men that will match up."

Helen Illingworth laughed a little, although she felt no inclination to movement.

"That's a fine compliment," she said. "Well, this has rather shaken me, and I'm going to ask you gentlemen to excuse me."

"Well, see if he is working on the dam tomorrow."

"You will stay all night, Mr. Winters?"

"Your father invited me to take a bunk in his car, and, to be perfectly frank with you, I'd sleep out in the open air rather than miss a chance of being in on the end of a game like this."

The girl bowed and left them.

"Dick," said Rodney slowly at last, as the two sat smoking together in the car.

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing. I was just thinking of the fact that we've got ways for persuading men to speak."

Trial Flock Makes Good Without Wheat

Wheat being expensive feed for chickens, the results of a recent test conducted by the poultry department, University of Wisconsin, brings out some gratifying points in favor of the wheateless ration.

According to data released by J. B. Hayes, in charge of the experiments, twenty-seven Leghorn pullets, fed no wheat during the test, laid a total of 2888 eggs or 220 dozen from November of last year up to May 1, 1917. This was an average individual record of 107 eggs for six months.

The scratch feed consisted of five pounds cracked corn and one pound of oats. The mash was composed of 100 parts ground corn, 100 parts bran, 100 of middlings, and the same of meat scrap, plus 25 parts of meal, 50 of gluten feed, and four pounds of salt.

"One pullet fed this combination started laying when five and a half months old," says Mr. Hayes, "and up to the first of May had produced 141 eggs."

More Geese in Wisconsin Would Pay. How about geese? Readers of the Daily Gazette's poultry column have asked that a little space be given to this important question. Down near Watertown, where this branch of the poultry industry is already well established, and has won a national reputation, probably little need be said to further encourage the business.

The following brief interview with J. H. Halpin, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin State Poultry association, touches the excellent chance for geese on Badger farms.

"Geese can grow almost entirely on grain and on that account there is an unusual amount of interest in geese raising this year. Grain and meat are so high that I want to see what geese can do," writes one of Wisconsin's farmers, who has always kept a few geese. Many others are writing to the experiment station for special advice in regard to their goslings.

"The eggs may be hatched under hens or in incubators. If hatched under hens, several hens should be started at once. It usually pays to put from three to six eggs under each hen and then test the eggs some time from the sixth to eighth day and if some of the eggs are infertile or dead, one or more of the hens can be given a brooder house and the eggs left to hatch. If hatched in an incubator, run the temperature from one to one and one-half degrees warmer than the place to which the goslings are to be moved. In either case it pays to sprinkle the eggs after the first week, and especially toward the latter part of the incubation period.

Taking Care of Goslings. When the goslings hatch under hens, take them out and put in warm lined baskets, but do not see until forty-eight hours after they are hatched. If they are to be raised in a brooder house, feed green stuff from the start and after three or four days, if grass is tender and abundant, no other feed should be given.

We have had six weeks goslings weigh six pounds.

Never feed goslings more mash feed than they will eat clean. They get weak legs and die. The goose is a pasture animal, so do not waste grain.

Sometimes hen brooded goslings have head lice. Grease the tops of their heads with a little vaseline. Do not allow the goslings to go into cold water as it checks growth.

To swim in cold water is necessary and usually it is harmful early in the season.

Don't fatten the breeding stock. Don't sell the best stock. Don't keep any of the late hatched or slow growing ones.

Don't let the floor in house stay wet.

Don't feed too much corn—Feed bran or oats.

Don't keep more than two or three geese to one gander.

Don't breed too closely.

Don't breed from mongrel or inferior stock.

"CAN ALL THE WASTE. BUT DON'T WASTE A CAN." More Canning Clubs Wanted.

Rock, Fond du Lac and Portage counties have begun their season's push for more boys' and girls' canning clubs. Meetings are being held by Miss Elizabeth Amery, assistant state leader of young folks and who wants recruits are arriving as fast as can be expected.

"What is needed more than anything else now to make the food conservation movement a substantial thing is volunteers to act as local leaders," is the appeal Miss Amery is sending out. "Anyone who is interested in young folks and who wants to be of personal service to their country and community at this time should step forward. We do not specify trained women, but girls for this work. Being willing to help is more than half the battle."

Work Can be Done at Home. Girls are not required to be present in group meetings to earn credits in canning clubs, contrary to a general opinion," Miss Amery said. "They may do their work at home. We do require that all members keep accurate progress records to be sent to the local leaders and then finally back to us."

Canning Asparagus and Rhubarb. Asparagus may be put down for next winter this way, Miss Amery says.

Select young, tender stalks of asparagus for canning. Reject the tough, woody stems and cut them to the length of the can, and wash in cold water, being careful not to break the stalks.

Then stand the bundles upright in a pan, with the water reaching to just below the heads. Cook in this way for a few minutes before the heads are put under water.

Asparagus is blanched from five to eight minutes. Blanching is the term used to describe the scalding or parboiling process. It softens the skin and reduces the bulk of greens and hard fruits and vegetables.

The packing is done in jars containing a brine made of two level teaspoons of salt to one pint of water. If the can is thick, alternate the heads and ends. Asparagus in containers is then sterilized or boiled from 90 to 120 minutes.

The proportions of fruit syrup advocated for use in Wisconsin canning clubs are two cups of sugar to three cups of water. These recipes for preserving rhubarb have been approved by Miss Amery.

"The rhubarb as tightly as possible into a jar. Fill the jar to overflowing with a heavy syrup. Adjust the rubber and the lid, but do not seal the jar. Sterilize for fifteen minutes on a rack in a covered pan of boiling water. The water around the jar should come to within about one inch from the top of the jar. Seal the jar, remove it from the water, invert it on a cloth, and allow it to cool. Store it in a cool, dark place. Rhubarb canned in this way makes good sauce or filling for pies.

In a similar jar place a layer of sugar one-half inch deep, then a layer of rhubarb of equal depth, and alternate in this way until the jar is filled, having a layer of sugar on top. Adjust the rubber and the lid, but do not seal the jar in boiling water, as previously directed, for twenty-five minutes. Seal the jar, remove it from the water, invert it and allow it to cool. Store it in a cool, dark place. This makes a richer sauce than does the first method described.

"Some persons advocate canning rhubarb without cooking it. The jar is filled with rhubarb, placed under the water faucet where the cold water is allowed to run over the rhubarb, packing it into the jar and filling every crevice. The jar is then sealed and stored in a cool, dark place. It must not be moved or disturbed in any way until it is opened. The rhubarb is sweetened when the jar is opened for use. Although this uncooked rhubarb may keep satisfactorily, the flavor is generally not so good as that of rhubarb canned by one of the methods previously described."

many a time, camp and forest were familiar to her. She wore a short-skirted dress, stout boots and leggings, and a yellow western slicker.

The exertion of the upward climb, stumbling over broken branches and uprooted logs and floundering through boggy places on the trail, brought a touch of color to her face, and though damp, the air sweet and fragrant, clean and pure, refreshed and pleased her greatly; the men, too. It was a hard pull, and she was out of breath when she reached the broken coulee, or ravine, which led to the top of the big red sandstone plateau.

"I'm terribly out of practice," she said to the two men, "but I don't believe I'm in any worse state than you are, Mr. Winters."

"I told you I wasn't any good on foot," said Winters, who was blowing like a grampus.

Rodney laughed at the two of them. "Look at me," he said. "I'm as fresh as when I began."

"Well, you're used to walking," returned Winters. "It's this plugging along this broken trail that has knocked us out. The rich, they ride on—branchos, you know."

"When we get on top of the mesa we will find it easier going," said Rodney encouragingly.

Dinner Stories

The decorator and his apprentice were line-washing the bakery.

They were about half way through their task when the master decorator came to look around.

The apprentice was splashing the lime wash about. The master, not relishing this waste, said: "Mind your eyes, lad."

The lad said: "It's all right, sir. I've just had one eye full, but I didn't waste it. I put it back in the bucket."

When the conversation turned to the subject of romantic marriage this little anecdote was volunteered by H. M. Asker, a North Dakota politician.

"So you were married ten years ago?"

"I suppose, with bridesmaids, flowers, cake and the brass band."

"No; it was an elopement."

"An elopement, eh? Did the girl's father follow you?"

"Yes, and he has been with us ever since."

A long-suffering husband had a wife who seemed to be perpetually talking. After driving him almost frantic one evening with her conversation she remarked:

"John! Just had one eye full, but I didn't waste it. I put it back in the bucket."

"I will do nothing of the sort," returned the exasperated John. "When I die I will have you cremated and your ashes placed in an hour-glass. Then you can keep on going forever."

"I used to try my hand at writing when I was in college."

"Ever write for money?"

"As often as I thought the old man would send me any."
